Fantasy Grounds - D's: G3 Hall of the Fire Giant King (1E) 50.00
This is an incredibly powerful set that came out of the 1st edition of Dungeons and Dragons. This Hall of the Fire Giant King set is made up of highly customizable cards that contain a fire giant monster. It also can't be printed without a Giant in the sets core rules, but this set is highly flexible and the flexibility is built into the set. It can be used to play any fantasy game that uses the 1E rules or any game it can be adapted too. The so called "Dynamic Cascading #1" set has a lot of customization and can be recharged with features borrowed from later D&D editions. The cards give a general idea of why the powers are listed together, and can be customized to fit your own campaign. As mentioned earlier, there are no lists or macros for these cards as the results vary drastically from one game to the next. In the heart of a not-so-distant future, humanity has destroyed the surface world and now lives in gigantic space habitats in orbit. The Moon is mankind's new life-saver, and you'll have to work your way through generations of disturbing and psychotic criminals to change that. Over a decade ago, a lighthouse on the Moon broke down. The lighthouse was brought back to life but with a condition: it had to be fixed for the whole of humanity. Never dream of stopping. You play as Rachel, an engineer of the first lighthouse generation that has been twisted by life in a space habitat. Over the course of your lifetime you have broken this generation apart in an attempt to unroot yourselves from the station. Your mission has been not only to lead the suicide of the station but to do it in a way that will destroy the original lighthouse as well. All in a day's work. Flowing Lights is a puzzle game about a lighthouse that also happens to be a bullet hell in the truest sense of the word. Run, shoot, jump, run, shoot, smash, get loot, shoot, unlock levels, unlock secrets, smash, unlock levels, unlock secrets, get loot, unlock levels, unlock secrets, get loot, unlock levels and that's just the first half. THE END Flowing Lights is a short but mind-bending and absorbing bullet hell. The puzzles may not be deep but they do what they do well and they get away from the puzzle bullet hell genre as much as possible. The level design, story, enemies and bosses are all excellent, and the reception around the game has been phenomenal. A final note for those reading this: Flowing Lights is currently in development and now has an itch.com crowdfunding campaign live. There is a great chance that Flowing Lights will get the chance to be released, and if it does, it will be an excellent game. About This Game: Flowing Lights puts you in the shoes of a lighthouse keeper in a procedurally generated environment. The goal of the game is to watch over the collection of twisted people that have become a soul-scarring blight of slowly gaining levels. The game combines role-playing elements, bullet hell, and light puzzle elements. Solving puzzles and wiping out hordes of enemies is a core component of this game. The story and characters follow a "lonely hero" narrative where you take on the role of Rachel, the troubled guardian of the lighthouse. You will need
